UK Eases Visa Regime for Indian Business Travellers

Dipjan Roy Chaudhury

New Delhi: India and UK on Monday chipped away on two key issues — mobility of people and extradition of fugitives including Vijay Mallya — that have been major irritants in bilateral ties despite a sop of easing visas of Indian businessmen to England by the visiting PM Theresa May.

While there was no commitment from May on the issue of student visas from India even as PM Narendra Modi nominate business executives to the Great Club, a bespoke visa and immigration service. With regard to the sticky issue of visas for Indian students May told Modi that there is no cap on the overall number of international students at recognised educational institutes in the UK and that Indian students continued to be welcome there. The UK home secretary will hold consultation on changes in the country's visa regime.

The two leaders also agreed that fugitives should not be allowed to escape the law. They agreed to facilitate outstan-

The two sides signed agreements of intellectual property rights (IPR) and of doing business following delegat level talks led by Prime Ministers Narendra Modi and Theresa May here.

Counter-terrorism was discussed at great length by the two PMs as they strongly condemned the Uri attack. The two sides agreed to further expand cooperation including in the cyber sphere to combat the threat of extremism. In a direct reference to Pakistan, the twosides noted that there should be no
